SWAN SONG FOR CUPID?

DIVORCE FOR HER? MAYBE!

Ganna Walska, who has sought operatic fame in vain for years, is reported to be planning divorce suit against Harold F. McCormick, harvester king. The latter says: "It's news to me. I'd be sorry if she does."

BOYS SAVE 2 IN RIVER; FEAR MAN DROWNED

Four Cambridge boys made a double rescue in the Charles River today when they pulled Anadio Alberico, Mt. Auburn street storekeeper, and George W. Edwards, a painter, to safety. Alberico said he had gone to rescue an aged man and Edwards responded to Alberico's cries. Police are now grappling for the body of the third man.

U. S. NOTE TO POWERS URGES ARMS PARLEY, HINTS 'WARSHIP RACE'

Washington, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Once more the United States has undertaken to lead the world toward a scaling down of naval armaments.

In a note to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, President Coolidge has suggested that treaties to that end be negotiated without delay at the Geneva conference.

The proposal would extend downward to smaller warships the limitations imposed at the Washington conference on first-class naval craft. The same proposal was made by the United States at the Washington conference, but failed of acceptance.

In a special message to Congress, announcing what he had done, Mr. Coolidge declared that, despite the principles laid down at the conference here in 1921, "certain powers" have laid down far-reaching naval building programs suggesting the shadow of another world-wide race among nations to outbuild one another.

He suggested, also, that the Geneva discussions, initiated by the League of Nations, are threatened with deadlock if the powers proceed along their present lines of negotiation.

So far as land and air armaments are concerned, the President evi-

SMOKE DRIVES THRONGS FROM NORTH STATION

Eating along under the planking of the North Station platform, a stubborn fire today drove thousands of Boston & Maine patrons from the terminal, cleared offices of employes and filled smoke through pneumatic tubes as far as the Central Postoffice in Postoffice square.

The North Station is three-quarters of a mile from the Central office.

It was a smudge fire, with little flame, but the dense smoke ran under the floor and through passages carrying pipes from the heating plant, choked the waiting room, ticket offices, Railway express offices, the train shed and most of the other sections of the station.

To guard money in the two Railway Express money offices, Captain Ambrose McConnell of the Hanover street station sent a detail of policemen to the scene, and another detail was sent by Captain McDevitt from Joy street.

In order to get at the stubborn

DIVORCE FOR WIFE? NOT THAT M'CORMICK KNOWS

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Harold F. McCormick, of the Harvester family of millionaires, denied today that his wife, Ganna Walska, beautiful Polish singer, is to divorce him. He is her fourth husband.

"I know nothing about the divorce rumor because there is nothing to it," McCormick asserted upon his arrival home from New York.

McCormick later slightly qualified his first statement that there was "nothing to it" by saying:

"So far as I know, there is nothing to it."

One of the small army of reporters and photographers that crowded the concourse at the LaSalle street station to meet him, asked Mr. McCormick if he hoped Ganna would soon come home to Chicago and he acquiesced in an affirmative manner. Asked later if he had said that he hoped Ganna soon would return home, he said:

"Did I say that? I did not mean to say it."

Another questioner asked him if he would be sorry if the divorce rumors were true, and he countered:

"Are you married, young man?"

The questioner admitted that he was, whereupon McCormick answered:

"Well, you would be sorry if your wife would divorce you—and I would be sorry, too."

Since their marriage in 1922, Mme. Walska has spent very little time in Chicago but has lived and has sung in concert chiefly in Paris and has traveled. McCormick has gone back and forth between this country and France a number of times since the marriage.

'LEAVE' GIVEN 2 PHONE MEN FOR VOTING PROBE

Two members of the Massachusetts Legislature have been "given a leave of absence" by the New England Telephone Company, by whom they were employed, it was learned today, because it is claimed the men voted in favor of an investigation of the company last week.

At least three other members of the Legislature, known to be employes of the telephone company, still have their jobs, it was also learned.

The representatives who have been granted "the leave of absence" were called to the superintendent's office after they had voted in the House for the investigation of the phone company and told that their "leave" began then and would continue until the Legislature closed.

BOTH OF BOSTON.

The men are Representatives Thomas H. Carr and Maurice J. Tobin, both of Boston. The startling facts regarding their employment by the phone company, their voting for an investigation and their being summarily "called on the carpet," came to light several days ago, but could not be confirmed until today.

When asked if the report were true both men admitted that they had been given leaves of absence.

The petition for investigation of the phone company was filed last week by Rep. A. A. McNulty. It was defeated, as all similar bills have been defeated. Tobin and Carr were among the legislators who voted for the bill.

CALLED TO OFFICE.

After the bill's defeat the two representatives were told to come to the phone company superintendent's office. That happened last Friday. They were told that they would have to take a "leave of absence" until the legislative session was over.

Both men are Democrats and are not the only legislators in the employ of the telephone company. Three others known to have voted against the bill demanding an investigation are still in good standing with the company. It was also learned today that one member of the Boston City Council, employed by the phone company, is still retained by them.

JURY WOMEN RESUME SEATS; TURNER SNARLS VENGEANCE IN COURT

By BERT FORD
(Staff Correspondent of the Boston Evening American)

Portland, Me., Feb. 10.—"I'd destroy Hallen a thousand times."

Hissing this answer to the prosecutor who was cross-examining him, Benjamin H. Turner, a snarling, snapping defendant, climaxed an hour of drama today in his trial for the murder of James D. Hallen.

"A devil," was the term Turner used in characterizing Hallen, and the accused declared bitterly that at the very moment he was being acquitted of killing a man in Mexico and was being warned by the judge never to kill another man he was planning the slaying of Hallen.

It was a swift hour, beginning with the reappearance in court of Miss Gladys Jordan, jury forelady, but a forelady who was a veritable wraith of the woman who took her seat at the beginning of the trial.

And the tense atmosphere had been further charged by the wild appearance in court of Turner, snarling at his keepers and apparently on the verge of collapse after a threat of suicide made in his cell.

Pale and tense and gripping the rail to support her faltering steps, Miss Jordan had come into court, a pitiful figure, and the startling contrast between her and Turner put the crowd immediately on edge.

The atmosphere was one of heavy drama, and the spectators in the crowded courtroom sensed that

ARREST 40 AS POLICE RAID BROADWAY PLAYS

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Forty actresses, actors, producers and managers, arrested in three Broadway theatres last night for participation in alleged immoral productions, were under bond today pending further hearings.

Repeated arrests will be made each night the plays are produced, Acting Mayor Joseph McKee has announced.

"We are determined to clean up this situation in the New York stage," Mr. McKee said, "and I hope that other productions will take notice. I include musical comedies and cabarets, against which we will take similar action if investigation shows they are violating the penal code."

"Sex," "The Captive", and "The Virgin Man" were the plays raided.

Mae West, star of "Sex," Basil Rathbone and Helen Menken, of "The Captive," and Don Dillaway and Dorothy Hall, of "The Virgin Man," were held in $1,000 bail when arraigned in court. Bail in the other cases was placed at $500.

The arrests were made quietly on warrants issued by Chief City Magistrate McAdoo. The plays were in progress when the police arrived.

RUTH TO QUIT UNLESS HE CAN GET HIS PRICE

New York, Feb. 10.—With "Babe" Ruth, home-run king, refusing to sign the contract tendered him by the New York Yankees and Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the club, barring the "Sultan of Swat" from the Spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., until he signs, the biggest baseball wrangle in a season noted for diamond turmoil, appears to be brewing.

Ruth, who is at present engaged in movie work at Hollywood, Cal., has returned his 1927 contract to Ruppert, unsigned, and the Colonel admits that he has been unable to reach an agreement with his star correspondence.

The "Babe" is reported to be ready to quit baseball unless he receives a contract that is satisfactory to him.

Neither Ruth nor Ruppert would divulge whether the "Bambino" has been offered more than the $52,000 he received last year but those intimate with the interested parties say that the 1927 contract called for the same salary as last season.

Ruth also refuses to state just how much he wants for playing this campaign, claiming that it is the duty of the club owners to decide how much he shall receive, but it is believed that he will absolutely refuse to play unless he is offered

DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER of Columbia University says that unless President Coolidge declares himself against prohibition, "he cannot, in my judgment, be elected on any ticket." The President rarely laughs loudly, but this time there will be an exception.

SENATOR BORAH, dry as the fiercest grizzly, accepts Dr. Butler's challenge and wants next year's Republican Presidential primaries to tell how the country feels about wetness and dryness.

While the wet doctor and dry Senator fight it out with many words, President Coolidge "sitteth within the shadow, keeping watch above his own."

"His own" in this case is the 1928 Republican nomination, if he wants it.

THERE IS no question of a third term for a man who has only been nominated and elected once.

It is not President Coolidge. WHO is. That question interests Washington. Three names interesting the wise are Secretary Mellon Secretary Hoover and Frank Lowden of Illinois. Secretary Mellon, older than the two others, is young enough to manage admirably after-the-war denced a willingness to let foreign powers work out an agreement of their own. The land and air forces of the United States, he said, are at a minimum and "constitute a threat to no one."

The message fell upon Congress without warning, in the midst of a controversy over construction of three cruisers. Over-riding the President's recommendations the Senate has voted to authorize this construction and the House, although it once rejected the proposal, appears disposed to accept the Senate viewpoint in conference. Some of the most influential leaders of the President's own party, including Speaker Longworth, have thrown their support behind the building plan.

Should Mr. Coolidge's suggestion be accepted by the powers and treaties negotiated to carry it into effect, cruisers would be one of the classes of ships directly affected by any limitation agreed upon.

The text of the note to the powers was included in the message to Congress. It said in part:

"Although hesitating at this time to put forward rigid proposals as regards the ratios of naval strength to be maintained by the different powers, the American government, for its part, is disposed to accept, in regard to those classes of vessels not covered by the Washington treaty, an extension of the 5-5-3 ratio as regards the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and to leave to discussion at Geneva the ratios of France and Italy, taking into full account their special conditions and requirements in regard to types of vessels in question.

"Ratios for capital ships and aircraft carriers were established by that treaty, which would not be affected in any way by the agreement covering other classes of ships."

ENVOYS HAVE POWERS

The President said the American delegates at Geneva would have full powers to negotiate definitely regarding measures for further naval limitation, and, if they are able to reach an agreement with the representatives of the other signatories of the Washington treaty, to conclude a convention embodying such agreement in tentative or final form as may be found practicable."

The American government and people, the President said, "are convinced that competitive armament constitutes one of the most dangerous contributing causes of international suspicion and discord and are calculated eventually to lead to war."

OTHERS BUILDING

Despite the hope of the United States to complete the work of the Washington treaty and extend limiting treaties to cover cruisers, destroyers and submarines, the message continued, "far-reaching building programs have been laid down by certain powers and there has appeared in our own country, as well as abroad, a sentiment urging naval construction on the ground that such construction is taking place elsewhere."

"Actually, I do not believe that competitive building of these classes of ships has begun," the President said.

He added, however, that in such sentiments as he had referred to "lies the germ of renewed naval competition."

High Spots in Peace Message by Coolidge

HIGHLIGHTS in President Coolidge's special message to Congress today on a further reduction in naval armament include:

"The American government and people are convinced that competitive armaments constitute one of the most dangerous contributing causes of international suspicion and discord and are calculated eventually to lead to war."

"We feel the policy of deliberate self-denial and limitation of naval armament by the great naval powers promised attainment of at least one guarantee of peace."

"Far-reaching building programs have been laid down by certain powers, and there has appeared in our own country a sentiment urging naval construction. In such sentiment lies the germ of renewed naval competition."

"The consequence to be feared is that a deadlock will be reached, should even partial progress in the reduction of armaments be conditioned upon acceptance of some universal plan covering land, sea and air forces together."

"American land and air forces constitute a threat to no one. They are at minimum strength; their reduction has been suggested by no one as a necessary condition precedent to general arms limitation."

"Reduction of our land forces has been rendered possible by our favored geographical position. I realize problems of armaments on land and in the air in Europe are beset with difficulties which in all justice we must recognize."

"I believe that we should make an immediate and sincere effort to solve the problem of naval limitation, the solution of which would do much to make the efforts toward more general limitation successful."

"The Captive," and "Sex" were recently acquitted of immorality by the Citizens' Play Jury, sponsored by District Attorney Banton, who had pledged acceptance of their verdicts.

Plans Injunction to Stop Raids on "The Captive" Cast

New York, Feb. 10 (I.N.S.).—Nathan Burkan, who appeared for "The Captive" cast in the Broadway stage "cleanup," said today he would seek an injunction if necessary to protect his clients.

He intimated that the management of the Empire will open the theatre today in defiance of the city's orders. Among those arrested in the "cleanup" were such stars as Mae West, Helen Menckon, Dorothy Hall, Gail Kane and Ann Trevor.

Box offices of the three raided theatres were flooded with requests for tickets today. A big crowd gathered early at the Princess Theatre, either desiring to see the show or to witness a threatened second raid.

Acting Mayor McKee today told reporters that the raids are not a "flash effort" to scare producers, but that they were made as the beginning of a "sincere drive to clean the local stage."

The three points of the derby will be Wolfeboro, North Conway and Ashland, a distance of 133 miles.

Wolfeboro, N. H., Feb. 10 (A.P.)—Seven crossbred huskies today broke out the sled of Emil St. Goddard of Le Pas, Manitoba, and started the run of 26 miles to Ashland, the first leg of the three-day dog team derby. They crossed the starting line here at 11 a. m. The other nine teams followed at five-minute intervals.

Malloy, driving the last of the ten teams to start, crossed the line at 11:45, and the race was on. None experienced any difficulty in making the start and the dogs were running easily over the first miles of the course.

The day was fair with bright sunlight. The temperature had risen nearly to the melting point which threatened soft going later over the uphill grind of the day's course.

A gathering of several thousand lined both sides of the street to watch the start of the race. The earlier starters reached their places at the line, flanked on one side by the postoffice and on the other by the First National bank, some minutes before the start.

Emil St. Goddard, winner of the Manitoba derby a month ago and driver of the same team which won second place here last year, sent his dogs away with a ringing, "Hi Mush!"

Teddy Kingesk of Alaska was the second away, with Leonhard Seppala's second team of Alaskan malmutes. St. Goddard demonstrated the sporting spirit of the race when he loaned one of the extras of his string to Hi Mason of Tamworth, N. H., to replace a wheel dog which was in poor condition.

SOLONS CHEER COURT DEATH

ENGLAND HAILED AS SAVING U. S. IN 'MUDDLE'

Washington, Feb. 10.—"Three cheers for John Bull, savior of America," solemnly commented Senator Moses of New Hampshire, always a bitter opponent of the plan to entice the United States into the World Court, when he learned that Great Britain's action had precluded any such back-door entrance into the League of Nations by this country.

England's action, by her refusal to accept the reservations of the United States Senate without the qualifying clauses adopted by the foreign powers at Geneva, wrote "Finis" to the attempt to make America a member of the World Court.

Senator Nye of North Dakota all but echoed the New Hampshire senator when he said: "Well, glory be. Once more Europe has saved the United States from embarrassment and plenty of it."

ISSUE IS DEAD NOW

The only way now in which the United States could become a member of the court would be:

(1) For Great Britain and other countries to withdraw their rejection of the Senate reservations, an extremely, if not impossible procedure.

(2) For the Senate to reconsider its reservations and write new ones—an admitted impossibility under existing conditions. A complete turnover of the Senate's membership would be necessary to accomplish this, as it is probable a majority of the Senate now favors America staying out.

The casualties suffered by pro court senators in last year's primaries and in the November elections has won over many of those who waveringly supported the court

DIAMOND RING IN MYSTERY

A diamond ring was given Maybelle Matheson, murdered West Roxbury girl, by an unknown admirer whom she later rejected in favor of another sweetheart.

This the police learned today from a scrutiny of a diary found among her belongings in which she recorded the receipt of the ring. Under date of April 26, 1925, she wrote:

"Received diamond ring today." The same day, the diary showed she was out with a man named "Al Fie." The next day one had an entry regarding another man: "Received Al's picture."

By scrutinizing through letters that Maybelle wrote home during the few weeks before her death, police found in one, written to a girl chum in Nova Scotia, in which she said she was going to "play along with" a certain admirer to get what gifts she could and then reject him.

With renewed activity since the offering of a reward of $1,000 by Governor Fuller, police began to run down clues. They questioned Maybelle's fiery friend, Mrs. Adler, with whom the girl usually spent the days on which she did not work.

Police Inspector Joseph Cavagnaro, homicide expert, interviewed an Italian living in Hyde Park, who is believed to know something of Maybelle's affairs.

JUDGE DENIES BOOTLEG TRAP

Washington, Feb. 10 (A.P.)—Denial that Federal Judge Frank Cooper of the northern New York district conspired in 1924 with Prohibition Administrator R. G. Morrick to entrap bootleggers was filed with the House Judiciary Committee today in a brief by Cooper's counsel, Elisha Hanson.

The committee, which is investigating impeachment charges preferred against Cooper by Representative Lufkowski, Republican, New York, proposed the brief in executive session.

Hanson asserted Morrick and James Cooper conferred in December, 1924, on a plan presented by Morrick to flood northern New York with new prohibition agents in an effort to raise contacts with bootleggers.

"Recently Mr. Morrick asked Judge Cooper to do and the only thing Judge Cooper did," the brief related, "was to promise to order the recess of Morrick's agents should they be apprehended by a federal officer and taken before a United States commissioner while they were performing the duties assigned to them by the prohibition administrator of the State of New York."

RUSH TROOPS TO AID TOWN

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—With Conservative forces now in control in Chinandega and the Liberals reported to be in flight from that important town, the Conservative government under President Diaz is making preparations to meet an expected attack by the Liberals on Matagalpa, about 75 miles northeast of Managua.

The Liberal general, Jose Maria Moncada, is reported to be approaching Matagalpa with well-armed forces and Conservative troops are being rushed to the city to prevent its capture.

The battle for the possession of Chinandega was one of the most sanguinary in the present conflict. The Conservatives lost 130 dead killed, while 200 were wounded; the Liberal losses are placed at 200 killed and 300 wounded.

President Diaz, in announcing his readiness to give up the presidency if the United States deemed it best that another man should take the office as a means of furthering the interests of Nicaragua, declared he thought the United States marines should remain in Nicaragua no matter who held the reins of government.

Love Flew Out Window as Chaplin Baby Died

By MILDRED HARRIS.

(Copyright, 1927, by Mildred Harris. Reproduction, in whole or in part, prohibited.)

Today Mildred Harris tells how Cupid love snapped like a violin string. Her love, too, dies.

At the premieres of his own pictures Charlie Chaplin is as nervous as if he were making a stage debut. We used to go together, and he would sit with one ear cocked toward the crowd, listening, watching to see how it went.

Often he would slip down to a theatre where his picture was being shown, and mingle with the audience, unrecognized, just to get the public reaction. It was a curious mixture, this wanting to know how the world liked his work and his complete ignoring of the audience to-be while he was working.

When making a picture he never seemed to think or care for any audience, but only to please himself. And after a picture was made he never looked at the picture, but went again and again to sit unnoticed in a darkened theatre to study the effect upon the audience of his personal art.

NEVER SATISFIED

He is a man whose ambitions are never satisfied. No matter how well he has done a thing—and he will never let it go until he is content that he has done his best—he always wants to go on and do something better.

Yet, they say Charlie's real love is his art—though I know that his love for children is as great—and that in time a woman will never be able to be more than a part of his life—the part that must give way when the genius for creative work takes possession of him and kills every other instinct.

Charlie loves children, all children, and his own.

With all his genius, all his marvelous experiences, there is still much of the child in him. Perhaps this is true of all men of genius. At least, it is one of his most human traits, this love for the things of life. It is crazy about every [illegible]

LOVED A ROMP

After we were married, he often ignored my friends and treated them coldly, but he was always happy when a child came to see him.

I have seen him meet a child at the door of our home with a wonderful pretended dignity. Just as if the manners were ground into the floor, he would bow and bring, playing hide-and-seek, getting down on his hands and knees and giving the youngsters a wild ride over the lawn.

No matter how absorbed Charlie was in his work, no matter how cold and indifferent he was toward grown people, children made him forget his own dejection and his moods. He said every child was a poet—we are ideals, but few grown people are.

WANTED A BABY

He always wanted us to have a child. I know that he was perfectly sincere in his hopes and plans. And I thought, when my baby was born, that our child would always keep us together.

That is a chapter of my story that I do not like to write, but I know it must be told.

Our child lived only a short time.

And when its little life went out, I knew that something had died forever between Charlie and myself. Charlie shut himself in with a wall of coldness. He had wanted the baby so much, and it was gone.

He suffered so much himself in the baby's death that he forgot me. In those terrible days, I longed for my husband to comfort and soothe me. I wanted him close to me. And instead, he drew away from me with an indifference that I could not understand.

Gradually I realized that the baby meant more to him than I did; that he was so absorbed in his own unhappiness that I was forgotten.

HER LOVE SNAPPED

Ill and weak and desperately miserable I felt that everything was over. My love for Charlie snapped like a violin string. And his love, I felt, had died. There was only the baby to keep us together. And the baby was dead. Perhaps I felt better then.

Time softens everything. Looking back over six years, I see things in a clearer light now. But then I was so young and so close to the tragedy. But a great grief kills in—or itself.

Tomorrow Mildred Harris will tell what books Charlie Chaplin liked most. She speaks of his second wife. A story is also told of the unprecedented furor created in the streets of London and of his reception by the King and Queen of England after his great triumph in America.

TRAINS TIED UP BY TWO WRECKS

Recruited to the Old Colony division of the New Haven Railroad because of a wreck on the main line at Canton Junction, a freight train today caused another tieup when one car jumped the tracks south of Atlantic.

Early trains were delayed and passengers were sent over the East Milton branch to East Braintree. The freight was from Mashbrook, N. Y., and had been shifted from the main line by the way of Taunton, Middleboro and East Braintree.

The Canton Junction wreck necessitated using a train over the Knowlesville Limited, from New York, was stopped just in time to avoid crashing into 24 freight cars which had left the rails.

The trial of Harry Trewin, former grain buyer, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was held in a theatre at Semans, Sask., there not being room for the crowd of spectators in the regular court. People in front were glutted for hours before the proceedings, and paid 25 cents admission. The "gate" was about $10.

NORTH STATION SMOKE-FILLED

fire, crawling and creeping under the heavy planks of the floor. It was necessary to climb half a dozen holes in the floor and lower men from floor to floor. No. 1, wearing gas masks, in rope slings into the subterranean passages.

The firemen were black with soot and oil when they were brought up again into the light.

Starting just inside the gates at track 18, apparently from a smoldering cigar or cigarette butt dropped between planks, the smudge crept rapidly.

Within a few moments after fire was discovered the ticket sellers in the Fitchburg section others, together with a line of patrons outside, were ordered to leave the building at once.

Then the throng in the waiting room left hurriedly for the street, coughing and with tears streaming down their cheeks.

Deputy Fire Chief Henry Powers in charge after the sound of the two alarms had been sent in, told lines of wire through the waiting room and ticket offices, from Causeway street to the main corridor of the station, but each time had only a limited area in which to play.

The holes were chopped in the platform along its length from Track 18 down to Track 4, but even with three aids it required more than an hour to subdue the fire.

Many girls were among the workers who had been turned out of the East and West-wing offices of the terminal by this time, but Dennis Driscoll, foreman of the despatching office in the North Postal Station, together with three co-workers, stuck to their post in the smoke, guarding twelve sacks of valuable mail that had to be sled through the pneumatic tubes.

At the Central Furniture, nearly a mile away, which became alarmed when smoke started to pour into the building from out the tubes, a call was put in for the North Station, but by that time the tubes had been closed and the smoke shut out.

Two trains scheduled to leave the North Station on Tracks 15 and 16 were shifted to other tracks, with no interruption of service.

Frank Joyce of the Boston & Maine Railroad announced that damage through the smudge would reach $800, chiefly through the holes cut in the platform.

31,000 Cocktails, in the Raw, Stolen by Boys in Holdup

The boys are growing bolder; so bold, indeed, that today they hooked a truck up to the Crescent Chemical Company in Cherry street, South End, rolled out two 52-gallon drums of grain alcohol under an employe's nose—and drove away.

That's raw material for just about 31,000 Bronx cocktails—or orange-blossoms, if you prefer.

The employe was standing in the doorway when the truck backed in. Three men sidled to the ground, let down the tailboard and pounced the door. The employe asked what they wanted.

"Mind your own business and stay right where you are," the leader advised him.

Then they went inside, directly to where the drums were, tipped them over on the ground, rolled them to the sidewalk and up a plank to the truck floor, lashed up the tailboard and drove away.

WORLD COURT DEATH LAUDED

when the original vote was taken a year ago. Six senators were beaten for renomination where the court was an issue, and six were defeated in the following election.

END OF FIGHT.

Neither President Coolidge nor the Senate will agree to having the Senate reservations rewritten by the powers in the League. The President's position is that the reservations adopted by the Senate after the long fight over adherence to the court represent the last word and the extreme length to which this country is willing to go in order to attain membership in the court. The Senate supports the President's position.

Announcement by the State Department that England would not accept the reservations was hailed by opponents of the League and Court as a final decision in their long battle to keep the United States out. Even the most ardent supporters of the court joined in the opinion that rejection of the reservations by Great Britain means the end of the fight.

Shortly before the State Department announcement was made, the Senate had voted, 59 to 10, to table the Trammel resolution forma by withdrawing the resolution of adherence previously adopted by the Senate.

LOOKS FOR SIMILAR ACTION.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and a leader of the "irreconcilables," led the first fight against the Trammel proposal upon the ground that it was unnecessary. He expressed the opinion that the American reservations would not be accepted. Senator Robinson, minority leader, took the same position.

Although the State Department declined to make public the British note, it is understood that the British foreign office insisted strongly upon acceptance by this government of the reservations to the Senate reservations which were adopted by the juridical committee of the league last September.

The State Department now looks for similar action by France, Italy and other European powers. Information as to whether these powers already have replied was refused at the Department.

Comment among the Senators who supported the court, as well as by those who opposed it, was commendatory of Great Britain's position.

"We are well out of it!" said Senator Hiram Johnson (R), California.

"Let all the earth be glad and rejoice with exceeding great joy," quoted Senator Watson (R), Indiana.

"Thank God," said Senator Cole Blease (D), South Carolina.

Senator Lenroot, who led the Administration's fight for the court, said:

"That settles the matter of our becoming a member of the court, so long as members of court take that position. So far as I know, no effort will be made to modify the reservations adopted by the Senate because of the objections of other countries."

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, bitter foe of the League and court, said:

"It is very fortunate for us. I am glad that English statesmen recognized the absurdity of the reservations which undertook to put us half way in and half way out of the court. Of course, it will not be in order for all varieties of internationalists and pacifiests, pink, red or yellow, to begin an agitation to induce the United States to withhold its reservations. But the movement will not succeed. The people have awakened to the danger and are demanding a return to old American principles and policies."

Senator Hiram Johnson, California: "We are well out of what might have been a disagreeable and perhaps perilous situation. That we have been extricated not by our own good sense, but by the dictum of Great Britain, while a bit confusing, makes us none the less grateful."

MANY MEN HAVE CONSTANT COUGH

Caused by Catarrhal, Asthma or Bronchial Trouble and Smoking

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY SOON STOPS THE COUGH

Some men can smoke constantly and never cough, but let them catch a deep-seated cold and get a touch of Catarrhal, Bronchial or asthmatic trouble in their throat, Bronchial tubes or lungs and smokers are bound to have an awful cough. Their system has difficulty throwing it off, and in time they weaken and are apt to fall easy victim to respiratory lung diseases, pneumonia, fever or grippe.

NEED REAL REMEDY

Such coughs in themselves aren't dangerous or alarming and any man may easily rid himself of such troubles and at the same time fortify, strengthen and build up his system so nature will be prepared to future attacks. If mental depends on how long it has clung to him, how long it will take to throw it off.

A couple large bottles of Lin-O-Nine, a nice tasting, creamy emulsion mixture of Flaxseed Oil, Cassia, Eucalyptus, Benzin, Irish Moss and Glycerine does the trick. It is nice to take, soothes the membranous lining almost instantly, checks the cough and rapidly accomplishes the work of throwing off the catarrhal, bronchial or asthmatic symptoms.

Lin-O-Nine is more thorough and fearless working than nasty, nauseating Cod Liver Oil, which is about the only other real remedy for such coughs.

Lin-O-Nine is made of finest ingredients and guaranteed by the long established, nationally known Kery Chemical Com. Doctors, specialists and thousands of users endorse it. Local druggists are featuring Lin-O-Nine. At this time of year grave dangers lurk in coughs and colds. BOOTLEGS THROW KISSES AT COPS, SAYS POLICE HEAD

Hartford, Ct., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Bootleggers are "throwing kisses" at the Connecticut State policemen as they dash away in their big automobiles at a speed the police cars cannot touch, Superintendent Robert T. Hurley has told the Appropriations Committee of the Legislature.

Superintendent Hurley asks for increase of the transportation appropriation to provide one "high-powered car" at each of the State police barracks.

BUTLER WON'T 'SMOKE OUT' COOLIDGE

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Editor of Universal Service

Washington, Feb. 9.—Put this down for keeps:

1—It will take much more than the "all talk" of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, or those for whom he speaks, to smoke out the alleged prejudice against an alleged third term for the President to smoke out the man in the White House today regarding his willingness to accept a second full election now, nearly two years away.

2—If at this time the Presidential preferences favor, merely a year hence, President Coolidge should come to the conclusion that it was his duty either to allow or withhold the use of his name, Dr. Butler, by reason of his bitter opposition to the direct primary, if for no other reason, is probably the last man in the United States who would be drafted as the spokesman of such an important Presidential decision.

BY DIRECT PRIMARY.

Unless Dr. Butler, President Coolidge has no reason to distrust the direct primary. In every public office to which he has been elected during the last twenty years, the nomination of Mr. Coolidge has been brought about in whole or in part under a direct primary law.

3—Dr. Butler's unsolicited ultimatum to his host of the White House is only the first of a series of efforts now inevitably among would-be candidates for President in both parties, to stampede President Coolidge into refusing the use of his name as a candidate now, before a popular movement, too strong to ignore, has sprung up in his support.

WHITE HOUSE "GUESTS."

4—Altogether too much importance has been attached to the fact that Dr. Butler was a guest at the White House not many weeks ago. There are many guests at the White House week-in and week-out. Some go and come without parading the fact before the public. Many are entertained but few are summoned.

And under this administration none find bear the onus at the White House brew the least to say when they leave.

The view is gaining ground in Washington that Dr. Butler is now saying some of the things that he failed to hear, to his great disappointment, when he last graced the White House with his presence.

FIND RELIC OF PARTY IN ALPS LOST 57 YEARS AGO

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 10 (A.P.)—Fifty-seven years after eleven mountain climbers were lost in a snowstorm that lasted a week, the skeleton of one of the party has been found in a Mount Blanc glacier.

It belonged to Dr J. Bean, an American, whose body was recovered with four others by rescue parties sent out after the disappearance was reported. Nothing further has ever been heard of the six other members of the expedition.

A spirited battle for the man is fought in "The Midnight Message," a serial of thrills, which begins in next Monday's Boston Evening American. You MUST get it and read it.

Suspect a Cold?

—Use Hot Lemonade

AFTER exposure take a piping hot glass of lemonade. Especially if you feel a little chill or have started sneezing.

This is the old-fashioned, time-tried, effective way of preventing or ending colds.

Healthful, too. For lemon, though known as "acid fruit," have an alkaline reaction in the blood. That tends to counteract acidosis, which is always present with a cold.

Just squeeze the juice of one California Lemon in a glass or cup of hot water—add honey or sugar if you wish—then sip it slowly after a warm bath. Go to bed with plenty of covers. In the morning you'll probably feel as fit as ever. Try it and see.

Prevent possible pneumonia or "flu" in this simplest, surest, safest way.

Get a dozen California Lemons today and always have them handy. They are the tart, juicy, practically seedless kind—best Hot Lemonade.

GOLF BALLS FLY IN DUEL, 'FORE!' CRIES POLICE

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 9 (A.P.)—The story of a duel at fifty yards with golf clubs and balls came out of Howey-in-the-Hills near here today. E. W. Wilson of St. Louis and T. V. Mequan of Syracuse, N. Y., disagreed as to the number of strokes each took in negotiating the links' dread course. They had words, then an argument and finally a fight. It was agreed that each was to have one driver, one iron and two dozen balls.

At fifty paces tees were carefully prepared. At the drop of a hat, as if for a putt, Scott approached, firing a swat. Several shots were the couple, pistol at the ready, and high and wide and then two duelists mixed their weapons.

Wilson knocked his antagonist down with a line shot to the groin. His opponent evened honors in three shots by sending a fast one to the other's ribs.

Passersby, attracted by what at first appeared to be a spirited two-some, became alarmed. One stable E. C. Scott was called. He arrived just as the iron shots began to whistle.

"Fore," shouted the constable. The duelists paused, one with a limping stance, and the other kneed the prostrate man.

Both were arrested on charges of assault and battery.

BUYERS OF INSURANCE GETTING MORE HONEST

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 10 (A.P.)—Moses R. Shainhart, Ira Penn and H. E. Moses were among the prosecution-stricken patrons of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company as questioned during the past week in the trial of $416.37 in "commissions" by, according to be unusual receipts of the company first board. Receipts included one $500 bill, were the possible means of identification.

That insurance agents are becoming increasingly honest, in one aspect, is indicated by the increase for last year over the $15,000 received the previous year. Much of this comes "through the confessions of the Hartford church," in the opinion of actuary A. H. Wightman.

THREE FORMER CZARIST OFFICIALS ARE EXECUTED

Moscow, Feb. 10 (A.P.)—Three Czarist officials were executed in a mining region today on charges of counter-revolutionary activities.

They were M. Artel, former inspector of the Ekaterinoslav prison, his assistant, and Krasnoff, a guard.

CHICAGO COMPANY SINGS TWO OLD-TIME FAVORITES

By MOSES SMITH

In contrast to the next two days when the Chicago Opera Company will produce a masterpiece rarely heard in Boston, and two other works unfamiliar to local opera dvotees, the two operas at yesterday's matinee and evening performances were old favorites.

Bizet's "Carmen," one of the most popular of all operas, and especially so with Mary Garden in the leading role, served as the vehicle to attract a crowded house in the afternoon. When this work was first presented it fell flat; about, apparently, was ahead of his time. The opera was considered advanced, as Wagner's music-drama had been.

"CARMEN" IS IMPROVED.

It is easy to understand the persistent popularity nowadays of Bizet's masterpiece. It is a veritable mine of beautiful melodies, all of which, though suggesting the Spanish locale, are original with Bizet with one exception. The score has wondrous rhythmic vitality, which becomes contagious. And the drama possesses intrinsic interest.

Mary Garden's Carmen is now so familiar that it requires little comment. Yesterday she was right or better in the character than usual, putting more of herself into the drama. Fernand Ansseau, as Don Jose, was likewise an improvement over his previous appearances here in this part. And watching him in "Carmen" one can readily understand Miss Garden's praise of him as an ideal operatic lover.

The production, as a whole, was superior to previous presentations of "Carmen" by the Chicago company. Edouard Cotrouil as Zuniga, and Hilda Mason as Micaela, both offered much pleasure, though Miss Mason has sung the beautiful aria in the third act better. Giacomo Rimini as Escamillo, the bull fighter, was faced with the difficult task of making one forget Georges Baklanoff in this role, and he scarcely succeeded.

"RIGOLETTO" EXCELLENT.

The settings of the second and third act were rarely beautiful. The chorus sang very well, indeed, and the ensemble was spirited. Giorgio Polacco conducted the score as the masterpiece deserved.

Verdi's "Rigoletto" was the evening bill, and it received an excellent if not quite a brilliant production. The principal feature was the presence in the cast of Elda Norena, who made a brilliant debut last week in "La Cene della Belle." Last night Mme. Norena made an unusually attractive Gilda, gave the role in a voice that possessed remarkable flexibility for the finer technics to which it is subjected, and still a voice which was exceptionally full for the part, and possessed lovely quality.

Mme. Norena's singing was a rare treat, the more so since it was not used primarily as a means of self-display. "Caro Nome" she refused to make the show-piece nine prima donnas in ten make of it, but instead she remained always in character. Quite deservedly she was given a great ovation.

BONELLI IN TITLE ROLE.

Richard Bonelli was heard in the title part—the biggest role that has been assigned to him in Boston. He sang beautifully. Our one criticism is that he is not yet sufficiently of the stature that the role demands. But this young man is coming, and coming fast.

Antonio Cortis was the Duke. His voice as usual was of great brilliance, and he sang the lyrical arias with rather more freedom than was expected. If he continues to make the progress on the dramatic side that he has been showing, he will have the qualities of a great tenor.

Sparafucile was sung by Edouard Cotreuil most acceptably, in spite of the fact that he was an eleventh hour substitute for Virgilia Lazzari, and had sung in the afternoon.

Sidelights of the Opera

By FRED TOYE.

In the last act of "Pelleas and Melisande," Mary Garden died a most pathetic death. Through the many episodes of the Debussy opera she paints an atmospheric picture of almost unearthly beauty and tenderness. With real tears blinding her eyes, she left the stage. In the wings she was nearly bowled over by a vigorous slap on the back. "Atta baby, Mary! 'Atta baby!" cried a hard-boiled Chicago electrician. Mary turned in [illegible] that when she was [illegible] some one [illegible] more members of the [illegible] Opera Company are [illegible] of the opera house [illegible] occasions, except when [illegible] are needed on the [illegible] everything [illegible] nothing quietly in these [illegible] ready to fill any vacancies at a moment's notice in the event of illness of a scheduled singer or change of bill. The exceptions are Rosa Raisa, Mary Garden and Forrest Lamont. The two prima donnas are frequently seen in boxes, and they too find it a pretty quiet evening when not [illegible] around the stage with [illegible] [illegible]-changing [illegible].

It is a veritable mine of beautiful melodies, all of which, though suggesting the Spanish locale, are original with Bizet, with one exception. The score has wondrous rhythmic vitality, which becomes contagious. And the drama possesses intrinsic interest.

Mary Garden's Carmen is now so familiar that it requires little comment. Yesterday she was rather better in the character than usual, putting more of herself into the drama. Fernand Anseau, as Don Jose, was likewise an improvement over his previous appearances here in the part. And watching him in "Carmen" one can readily understand Miss Garden's praise of him as an ideal operatic lover.

The production, as a whole, was superior to previous presentations of "Carmen" by the Chicago company. Edouard Cotreuil as Zuniga and Edith Mason as Micaela, both offered much pleasure, though Miss Mason has sung the beautiful aria in the third act better. Giacomo Rimini as Escamillo, the bull fighter, was faced with the difficult task of making one forget Georges Baklanoff in this role, and he scarcely succeeded.

"RIGOLETTO" EXCELLENT.

The settings of the second and third act were rarely beautiful. The chorus sang very well, indeed, and the ensemble was upheld. Giorgio Polacco conducted the score as the masterpiece deserved.

Verdi's "Rigoletto" was the evening bill, and it received an excellent if not quite a brilliant production. The principal feature was the presence in the cast of Edie Nerona, who made a brilliant debut last week in "La Cena della Beffe." Last night Miss. Norena made to unusually attractive Gilda and her role on account thru personality, exquisite flexibility for the florid technics to which it is subjected, and still a voice which was exceptionally full for the part, and possessed lovely quality.

Miss. Norena's singing was a real treat, the more so since it was not used primarily as a means of self-display. "Puma Nonna" she refused to make the show-piece nine prima donnas in ten make of it, but instead she remained always in character. Quite deservedly she was given a great ovation.

RONELLI IN TITLE ROLE.

Richard Ronelli was heard in the title part—the biggest role that has been assigned to him in Boston. He sang beautifully. Our one criticism is that he is not yet sufficiently of the stature that the role demands. But this young man is coming, and coming fast.

Angelo Curtis was the Duke. He was as usual was of great brilliance, and he sang the lyrical arias with rather more freedom than was expected. If he continues to make the progress on the dramatic side that he has been showing, he will have the qualities of a great tenor.

Scarfurolo was sung by Edouard Cotreuil most acceptably, in spite of the fact that he was an eleventh hour substitute for Virgilio Lazzari, and had sung in the afternoon.

Sidelights of the Opera

By FRED TOYE.

In the last act of "Pelleas and Melisande," Mary Garden dies a most pathetic death. Through the many episodes of the Debussy opera she paints an atmospheric picture of almost unearthly beauty and timorousness. With real tears blinding her eyes, she left the stage. In the wings she was nearly bowled over by a vigorous slap on the back. "Atta baby, Mary! 'Atta baby!" said a hard-boiled Chicago electrician. Mary turned in a dazed fog which she was not able to dissipate for some time. Veteran Foreman Replies to Kicking Wage Earners

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Workers in this country persist in thinking that the column have attracted the attention of employers, executives and foremen as well as rank and file workers. The spate of incoming letters proves this.

A LARGE Western employer writes: "I have made it a point to do my best to get closely acquainted with our men, especially with men that have been working for us for some time. I find that it pays a world of good to get well acquainted with them and share with them."

A DAYTON toolmaker sums up in these few sentences how workmen like to be treated:

B. C. Forbes

"Before starting work each man wants an assignment with necessary initial instructions. He likes to know what is expected of him, what satisfactory work he wants to show him if done. A well-managed business pays its workers. In dealing with them one must never assume power or dignity as against subordinates, superiors or by virtue of being older than others. He wants to be courteous and exacts at least the common courtesy of business relations."

ONE of the best letters yet received is from a foreman, in Scranton, Pa. Most of the complaints voiced by workers have been against foremen. To us often industrial opinion has been correctly described as the "key man" in industry. In the eyes of men, he represents the company, he represents capital and he is the only representative of the company and of capital with whom they have any direct dealings.

"The greatest complaint seems to be against the hard-boiled foreman," he writes. "If consider myself a workman, although I have been a foreman for 19 years. I feel called to say that I am mostly in accord with the complaints. Yet I am convinced that it is quite as bad as most would make out. No one seems to look at it from the foreman's point. There are very few workmen among the skilled trades who do not believe (and perhaps rightly) that he is a better man than the foreman.

"As in the army you will find that any buck private knows more about running the company than the top-kick who only got it through a pull. My point is where and how did he get the pull? Surely not from complaining but only from filling orders as given, no matter who gave them as long as they had the right to issue them.

"Each man has his own way and ideas of doing a certain piece of work or handling it personally. I have found that it pays to let him work his own way until you find his proper level. Remember, then, as foreman, it is your place to correct where he is at fault. If on the other hand his way improves your production up, it is up to you to see that the other men are instructed in his method. It is not necessary for the foreman to cover up whose ability was responsible for the improvement in production.

"I can say that I have had many men work for me who were my superior as individual workmen, but could not push a small gang of men. They could not take a stand and do the work themselves.

"A man should be given credit where and when credit is due. This I know, is not done by a lot of foremen, but you will find they don't last very long. To get results it is necessary to know each man and each job, also to understand men as well if you are going to get anything out of him. The idea of most foremen is to get as much out of a man as they can, which is wrong.

"So, boys, when you start to kick don't kick the foreman for between you and the office we sure get ours."

A RAILROAD worker in Washington, D. C., writes:

"To accomplish things desired by employers no rule of force, harsh speaking, fractional friendship or highsounding words are needed, but, fair dealing, sincerity and justice, mixed with an understanding of human weakness. All employers are entitled to a saving wage, safe working conditions, consideration and proper remuneration with fair and honest dealings to stimulate their interest in their work.

"Modern psychology is teaching us that the best way to get results out of human beings is by getting them to develop their own ideas and stimulating their initiative along their own constructive lines."

UNITED FRUIT OUTLOOK IS FAVORABLE

Just as a year ago, when the capital stock split up of 1¼ for one and a extra of $3 a share on old took was ordered, United Fruit Company directors again display their confidence in general conditions and in the future of the company itself in declaring an extra of $1.50 a share, calling for largest distribution in history of the company. The regular and extra $1.50 dividends together will entail an outlay of $6,250,000.

There is nothing unusual or significant about the United Fruit extra dividend as a fresh manifestation of the company's earning power and resources.

It has for some years now been plainly strong in liquid resources, remarkable so for a company which with a total laboratory item of every description of only $10,000,000 has practically no inventory problem in the commonly accepted sense. Cash holdings as of December 31 were in excess of $25,000,000 and in addition the treasury held $5,000,000 government, state and municipal securities.

With prospects favoring a satisfactory year for profits in all departments, including sugar and cocoa, which for several years have lagged on net, and with only a moderate budget for 1927 the management naturally felt warranted with its cash resources of nearly $7,000,000 in adopting a measure of dividend liberality.

It is too early as yet to make any estimates of profits for the first quarter of the year, but with nearperfect weather prevalent throughout the country and steady fruit demand it would seem as though net could be at least up to the total of $ 560,000 after depreciation for the first quarter of last year.

Despite its dividend liberality United Fruit has steadily poured millions back into its growing business. In the past five years it has invested an average of almost $4,000,000 a year and for the past ten years, the average is even higher, almost $11,000,000.

Now it has reached the point, where under President Vicker the emphasis is being laid upon the development of markets more than upon the enlargement of production, though expansion in fruit is steady year by year. It is perhaps doubtful if as much profit upon new property in the immediate future as some few years ago and that policy, of course, means a smaller drain upon cash resources.

LOOK BY RIPLEY IS TO REPEAT HIS CRITICISMS

"Main Street and Wall Street," Prof. W. C. Ripley's new book to be issued Friday, arouses attacks made on corporate structure that he made during past few months. Besides discussing the evils of non-voting stocks, voting trusts, and superposition of holding company upon holding company in public utility field, he carries his campaign into "evils" of no-par stock, limited liability, and charter exemption from penal responsibility of directors of corporations. These practices, he says, are menaces to sound finance something might snap at any moment.

Even when Turner, pulling him by the arm with a sickly shudder, stepped nervously out of the dock and stood up on the witness stand he was not charged, but the strain seemed to tell as he answered the call of the nation in a firm voice.

A dramatic pause, a jump or two away from Miss Jordan, first woman in over a murder jury in New Jersey, as Turner resumed his seat, now and why he killed Dr. Walter Kenneth Fairmouth Fuller.

Although she had gamely left her cot in the Mains General Hospital, it was plain to everyone in the courtroom that she was a woman sick in body and mind and vastly enfeebled through her ordeal.

WOMAN NEAR COLLAPSE.

When she came from the anteroom with a court official and Mrs. Beulah Skinner, a deputy sheriff, who spent the night with her, fearing her collapse, Miss Jordan's countenance was ashen. She stood a step or two just inside the door behind her to shuffle like pallbearers.

Then one foot and of the jury box a wail went out caught and [illegible] Mrs. Skinner [illegible] assistance to her [illegible] a pied in appearance.

Prosecutor Speer's defense had hoped and prayed that the woman would muster the strength to continue with an ordeal which shattered her nerves on the third day of the trial.

The physicians at the hospital had nursed and cajoled her. They had reported to a court that the main reason for her refusal to [illegible] was her own fear and traditions.

Judge Anderson [illegible] when the [illegible] officer arrived in an automobile to convey her and Mrs. Skinner to court.

CARRIES BOUQUET.

Miss Jordan was careful to bring to court from the hospital the bouquet of carnations which Mrs. Emma Haskell, the other woman member of the jury, and the ten male members had sent to her in their sympathy.

Arriving at court, Miss Jordan sent Mrs. Skinner to Judge Chapman's chambers to inquire of him whether the court the courtesy of having the flowers placed on the judge's bench, which was done.

As court opened and Turner, the admitted slayer of two men, shambled in, his gaunts reversed and had passed a sleepless night and [illegible] and stepped at everything. His hair was disheveled and he was deathly pale when he took his seat next to his counsel's table.

He asked for his overcoat, which he threw over his shoulders until the proceedings got under way, and he seemed lost in profound thought, different to the ordeal that reigned the court to overflowing. He had kept his gaze downcast, his clenched left hand pressed hard against his cheek and he seemed to walk with difficulty when he entered the room.

A furtive, hang-dog glance he cast at the jury as it started to file in, headed by Miss Jordan whose frailty was emphasized by a pink green dress and the light blue silk scarf stamped with huge yellow and purple flowers, which fell from her slim shoulders.

Judge Chapman defended the proceedings with the question

"Owing to the delay occasioned by reasons that are not well known to require mentioning here, the court desires to know if counsel are prepared to proceed?

Attorney Connolly—he reopened the case for the prosecution—and County Solicitor Ralph Ingals—"And the State is ready to proceed."

Turner pulled himself together with apparent effort and walked quickly to the witness box. He answered nervously, and a buzz went from when he answered the first question.

[illegible] a raking cross fire County Solicitor Ingals [illegible] jured indulged in frequent bursts of [illegible] one of [illegible] of a very cross-examination [illegible]

"Would you destroy Hallen if you had opportunity?"

"Yes," Turner hissed. "I'd destroy Hallen a thousand times over."

Turner turned a sullen face on the young prosecutor as the latter plied his verbal lash.

Q—Was self-defence your defence for that murder or was it irresistible physical and mental impulse? A—There was an element of self-defence. I knew [illegible] was dangerous and that he was armed and I saw a loaded pistol on

CALLS FOR HALT ON BOSTON PONZIS

ACTION BY STATE IS DEMANDED

Declaring people are fleeced out of millions of dollars annually in shady stocks, Representative William H. Hearn of East Boston has filed an order calling for a special investigation of stock conditions by the Legislature.

The East Boston representative would require the approval of the Public Utilities Commission on every stock before it could be sold in Massachusetts.

On his proposed investigating committee he would have six members of the House and three members of the Senate.

"There is so much difference over the effectiveness of the present law under which the Public Utilities Commission operates that I believe a special investigation should be made," Hearn said in explaining his order.

HEARING ON TODAY

A legislative hearing on Hearn's order is scheduled for today at the State House.

"I have conferred with the presidents of Boston Stock Exchange and Boston Curb Exchange relative to such an investigation," said Representative Hearn. "I received a communication from the Curb president stating the organization was heartily in favor. From the president of the Stock Exchange I received a letter stating the association would be glad to co-operate in any way it could. I believe the Massachusetts law is inadequate and that the Federal and state laws should be amended."

At the present time all stocks listed on the Boston Stock Exchange and Boston Curb may be sold without approval.

STOP THE PONZIS

"A law which will prevent men like Ponzi and others from defrauding the people of their savings and be passed on the statute books. I feel that the promises of 3 wise men would have full authority to enforce these laws and prevent men like Ponzi and others from defrauding the people of their savings

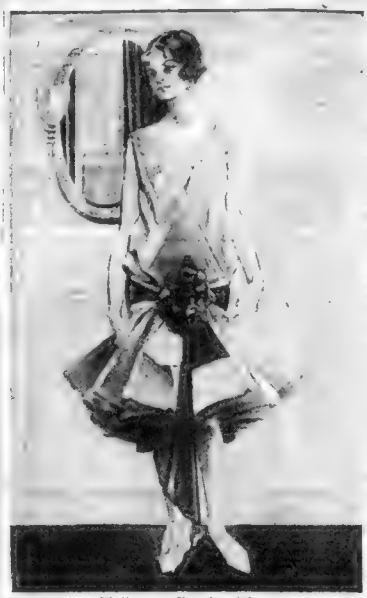
HOWELL IN BOSTON SHOPS



Maline for Evening Wear

Wispy diaphanous maline, so euphonious by name and so gracefully alluring as raiment, is the very newest material for evening wear—an origination by American fashion designers.

The model shown is in beautifully rich two tone—red over orange. The skirt is composed of layer on layer of maline, six in all. Adornments are a rosette and streamers from waist line and two rows of pearls across the bodice.

Other Mode of the Moment features of this arresting gown are the uneven hem and the long waist line, the latter a departure from the Winter trend.

Howell Fashion Sketches depicting Modes of the Moment as found in Boston department stores and shops appear weekly in the Boston Evening American.

DON'T GAMBLE. It's fatal. But if you must be a bull: Ask bears that gambled in Wheeling & Lake Erie about that. The stock climbed up to fifty or more, then they sold it, now having it to sell. Many were compelled to buy it as high as 170.

Then, perhaps, some of them made up their minds to change and become bulls. Within two hours the stock had dropped from 130 to 65, and then it jumped up to 100.

If you buy, you know at how far you can fall. Go a point and you cannot tell what that will do to you.

Some wolves in the Carpathians had the same idea until lately. Hundreds of the wolves attacking villages in broad daylight, ate five peasants in one week. Then a flying machine with bombs started out. Two hundred wolves "bit the dust" in the snow. They know now that flying counts in war. The Sikhs know that also some day.

THE PRINCE of Wales visiting a maternity hospital in London's poverty stricken East End found a committee for each of forty eight new babies just arrived. Considering what a new baby looks like, that is doing well.

The Prince may well visit that hospital. It is the factory that produces strength for empires and protection for thrones.

"IDLENESS," declared Urcleam A. Muldoon, "is a wrecker of championship careers and if Gene Tunney does not fight until September, the layoff may cost him his title."

The veteran member of the New York State Athletic Commission is absolutely right in his attitude concerning the folly of idleness, but I'm inclined to disagree with him in his thought that a year's layoff will cause my defeat.

I do not drink coffee. I eat a lot because I believe in the preaching that coffee is bad for an athlete. It's because I don't like coffee. I am not overly fond of milk and therefore, I do not drink it in great quantities, despite the preachment as to its benefits. I like tea—weak—but I drink it only in moderation. Of course I do not touch alcoholic drinks.

Fresh Vegetables Important Part of Gene's Diet

Meat is something I eat but once a day. I have no particular fancy and no definite aversion. If it's a roast, or a steak, or something broiled—well, it's all right with me, provided it is well cooked. And I'm not particular whether it's beef, fowl, pork or mutton. But my preference is beef merely because it has more nourishing properties.

Sandow Is Barred as Mondt's Second for McGill Go Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

BILLY SANDOW, manager of Toots Mondt, will not be per[mitted] to go into the latter's corner when the cowboy battle Pat McGill, Irish heavyweight champion, in a finish wrestling bout, best two falls out of three, at the Grand Opera House tonight. Promoter Paul Bowser believes Sandow has caused too [many] sensational wrestlers here to be given Mondt-McGill tussle.

[Bout] between Mondt and McGill [was] originally booked for Tuesday night, but was [post]poned because Mondt was [ill] with a cold. Sandow, who has been [ban]ished from the mat by Referee Ed Smith, will be replaced by Jack Curley, Mondt's manager.

Sandow's action in barring Mondt's second from the ring is the result of the latter's attempt to interfere in the bout between Mondt and McGill in New York recently.

Nurmi Better Than Wide, Is Opinion

New York, Feb. 10 (I.N.S.)—Athletic experts today were making comparison of the styles of Paavo Nurmi and Ivan Wide to the Swede's disadvantage, as a result of the latter's first appearance on an American track last night.

Wide, mentioned easily won a special 2-mile race in the Newark, N. J., games in 9:16.2, which will go down as a record because the distance never had been run before indoors. It is good 110 yards short of a mile and a half, at which distance Nurmi holds the indoor record at 8:36.2.

The Swede's style proved to be unorthodox in the extreme. He runs even "higher" than Nurmi and uses an exaggerated knee and arm action.

Providence, Feb. 10—A fight [that] threatened to develop into a free-for-all battle [broke] out in the third period of the game between the Providence Reds and the Detroit Cougars in the Rhode Island Auditorium here tonight, when Lionel Conacher, Detroit defenseman, attempted to check Reginald Boucher, Providence center, as the latter was skating toward the Detroit goal.

Conacher came up in the middle of the second period with the Detroit, the Reds won, 3 to 1. Conacher, Detroit defenseman, was [pen]alized for [tri]pping Boucher. [Ca]pt. Eddie Gerard, Providence manager, protested the decision, claiming that Conacher had tripped Boucher before the puck had been passed to the latter.

George Redding made his [ap]pearance in the game by [re]placing Morrison as goalie for the Reds in the last period. Morrison was injured in the second period when Frank Morris, the Reds' star defenseman, [col]lided with him. Redding [re]placed Morrison at this point and [held] the Cougars scoreless during the remainder of the game.

"Used it for years," this Beacon St. woman says:

"I've been using Rinso for several years now, and I wouldn't think of doing my housework without a package of it on hand. It doesn't get clothes whiter! And so easily! Why, just soaking the wash in the safe Rinso suds overnight gets all the dirt out. There's no real rubbing to do and of course, that saves the clothes—and hands, too! With Rinso, clothes don't need to be boiled—that's why my gas bill is so low now. Rinso is also just as good for cleaning woodwork, floors, sinks, etc., I've found. It's a real work saver."

MISS ALTA MULVEY
790 Beacon St., Boston, Mass

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

Just think! This snowy wash never touched a washboard

—it was just soaked whiter!

AND this is only one wash. Millions of washes all over the country are now being soaked whiter every washday.

Women everywhere are giving up old-fashioned washday habits. Why scrub and boil when this way soaks clothes cleaner! Whiter and brighter than ever!

It's the Rinso suds that do it. Here are real suds that loosen dirt and stains—not just soap bubbles. Rinso makes the hardest water soapy all through.

Easy on clothes and hands

It's such fun to rinse off the creamy Rinso suds and find the wash whiter—without one bit of hard rubbing! Hands stay young, clothes wear longer, when the wash is done this gentle way.

Now you don't even need to boil the wash. Rinso whitens and sterilizes without boiling. And it's so safe. Contains no acids, bleaches or harmful chemicals.

See for yourself, next washday, how a tubful of rich Rinso suds soaks your wash spotless. It's all you need—no bar soaps, chips or powders.

Get Rinso from your grocer. For economy and best results follow the easy directions on the package.

In washing machines, too

Rinso is great for washers. The makers of 30 leading machines recommend it for safety, and for a whiter, brighter wash.—Lever Bros. Co.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

A MAN just purchased fifty thousand dollars worth of cats and sent them abroad. He wants to get some sleep at night.

THERE were enough pussies in the shipment to keep France and England awake.

BUT as long as they meow in Europe they aren't going to disturb him in this country.

IT'S reported that a wealthy Frenchman is going to buy the same cats and send them back to America.

THIS is a good idea. Nobody's sleep will be interrupted as long as we keep the cats traveling.

THERE'S hardly a neighborhood in town that hasn't got a feline quartet.

YOU can even kill a couple of them and the other two will sing duets.

THE concerts start at midnight and every fence is an opera house.

ONE fellow spilled his dog on three cats the other evening and in fifteen minutes they had the dog singing.

LATER on when the cats nabbed refreshments they went in the house and stole the cheese out of the mouse traps.

THERE'S a tom cat in Roxbury that eats a canary every night. He can't sing on an empty stomach.

IT'S a shame that he has to feed on 310 canaries when there are plenty of mice running around the cane fires.

HOWLING drives some people crazy. One absent-minded man was awakened the other night and hit the baby with a shoe.

THEN he went outside and started singing a lullaby to the cat.

ONE fellow says the cats never disturb his slumber. Instead of bothering to throw anything at them, he guess himself with a hammer.

WHY let a flock of pussies keep you awake at night when you can bound yourself to sleep with a baseball bat?

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

MARRIAGE, which should be the High Road to Happiness, turns out so often, alas, to be just a little detour!

* * *

These days an eligible bachelor regards Orestes, who was pursued by the Furies, as a lucky man. For, the Furies may have been women—but they were neither blonde nor beautiful!

* * *

There are a hundred ways of killing love; but a woman's favorite ones are by strangling it to death, smothering it to death and tiring it to death; a man's by freezing it to death, starving it to death, or bullying it to death.

* * *

The average woman looks upon her husband's ability to make money as some sort of sleight-of-hand performance which should leave him lots of time and energy to play around with her at parties every evening.

* * *

A man fancies that in order to keep young, he must have a new sentimental diversion every now and then; but it never occurs to him that the same old diet of domestic placidity and after-breakfast coffee-kisses may give his wife a touch of heart-fag, too.

* * *

A woman loves clothes for their own sake; but when a man begins taking a vital interest in his sartorial effects, it is either for the sake of business and the pursuit of the dollar, or for the sake of love and the pursuit of women.

* * *

Old books, old wine, old friends and even antique furniture may be best; but when it comes to a modern car or a woman, every man is looking for the latest model.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, vegetable-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents. It is improved by the addition of other ingredients, and is called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

SHIP SAILS FOR MARDI GRAS

The Mardi Gras in Rio de Janeiro begins Feb. 27 and ends March 1.

During these three days Rio de Janeiro is a city transformed. The beautiful wide boulevards are thronged with good-natured Brazilians dressed in colorful costumes throwing streamers and confetti.

The very atmosphere is permeated with hilarity and good will. Brilliant balls take place at the hotels and private residences and revelry lasts until early morning in the fashionable cafes. Here is an opportunity to see Rio at her best and enjoy a sea voyage and to escape the worst months of Winter.

Rio can well afford to feast and entertain since the equal of any in the United States in architecture, accommodations and service.

The Munson Steamship line has announced the S. S. Western World will sail from Rio on February 12 and arrive in Rio on February 23. Thus, for anyone who wishes to return from the Mardi Gras festivities, they can leave on the S. S. Pan America on March 2 and arrive back in New York on March 16.

DEATH VALLEY NOW OPENED

Death Valley, 276 feet below sea level, the greatest dry depression on the United States, was thrown open to the public on Feb. 1 as a scenic playground.

The Union Pacific and the Tonopah and Tidewater lines have fitted a way into the heart of this romantic spot, around which cluster many Western legends. In form it is a narrow, elongated strip of land running north and south through Inyo county, California.

Somewhere in this region the lost mine Pg Lez Mine is supposed to have been located. Countless expeditions seeking that golconda crossed the Panamint Range to the west, trekked down through the Funeral Black and Grapevine mountains on the east and were rewarded by Americans in search of Peg Leg, which in the minds of the frontier was a treasure cave of gems and gold.

Twenty-odd years ago, when "Death Valley" first heralded as the richest mine in the world, a special train from the West to answer his sudden search on the Tenderloin, and Peg Leg Smith, who first created Death Valley, found the Peg Leg and got a breakfast food "Peg O" soon faded into oblivion and the legends continued to lurk on the shores of Death Valley's dry lake.

Now civilization takes Death Valley by its own and has made a available with hotels, bungalows, lodges and tourist. Its climate, with a temperature ranging from 70 to 125 degrees in the shade, hot days and cool nights all the year, may at least many.

RADIO PROGRAMS

RADIO DIALOG by WILLIAM RADOS

Last night was a success in many ways. First there was the delightful program and then the delightful reception. Godly and Glenn Rennold, conductor, Jessie Glenn and Jessie Rennold, soloists, and Mr. Godly himself, were all on hand at the studio to receive the congratulations of friends.

Hundreds of them were there, and many more after that, who were unable to get in. Manager Rennold was kept busy all evening answering telephone calls from those of the latter type were, and there were many. Telegrams also trickled down through the Funeral Black and Grapevine mountains on the east and were received by Americans in search of Peg Leg, which in the minds of the frontier was a treasure cave of gems and gold.

Twenty-odd years ago, when "Death Valley" first heralded as the richest mine in the world, a special train from the West to answer his sudden search on the Tenderloin, and Peg Leg Smith, who first created Death Valley, found the Peg Leg and got a breakfast food "Peg O" soon faded into oblivion and the legends continued to lurk on the shores of the dry lake.

Just about 7:30 we were listening to Doctor Friedman, who is evidently a baseball fan, talking about the Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig combination in Tennessee. The study of baseball is a hobby with the doctor, and he appears enthusiastic to more, but Dr. Friedman told us humor very interesting. He talks in a quiet manner, and he proves to us how dependent we ourselves are upon the senses of hearing and sight. Take away these two senses, he said, and we would be helpless. Take away hearing, and we would be helpless. Take away sight, and we would be helpless. Take away hearing, and we would be helpless. Take away sight, and we would be helpless. The Interrupted Ride

He Will Quiet Down Again

PLEASANT, WHILE IT LASTED.

The two pictures in this column are by John Baer, formerly Congressman from North Dakota, now a good cartoonist, making pictures for Labor, organ of the working men.

Mr. Baer is always hopeful, always a friend of the under dog.

In the first picture he shows China as she was, until lately, with European powers riding on her back, doing as they chose with her.

400,000,000 Chinese had to buy opium from England—that meant profit.

400,000,000 Chinese bought rough cotton cloth from various nations, from Great Britain especially—THAT meant profit.

Then the bankers of the white races lent money to China for it and charged plenty. That also meant profit.

EXCITED, BUT IT WON'T LAST.

But picture No. 2 shows China of today, bucking wildly, throwing off the Europeans, threatening to tear down their European courts on Chinese soil and take back the concessions on which European soldiers enforce the European will.

It is unpleasant riding just now. But a big, long dragon soon gets tired of such bucking.

Many will be killed, tens of thousands surely, perhaps hundreds of thousands, or even millions, before they stop, what with modern weapons, disease, hunger, floods.

But the white men live far away. They are patient. The old Chinese dragon will get tired. Then Europe will climb aboard once more, and the pleasant commercial ride will proceed.

An earnest man said that he never would believe that Providence had made certain men to ride on the backs of other men. They were not MADE for that, undoubtedly, but there is no question that certain races DO ride on the backs of other races, and do about as they please with them.

This country is trying to be fair with China. When European nations compelled poverty-stricken Chinese to pay gigantic sums after the Boxer rebellion, Uncle Sam gave back his share of the "swag," on condition that it should be used for Chinese education.

We set a good example then, may we CONTINUE it.

And while we say, "The United States for white people," let us also admit that Chinese have a right to say "China for CHINESE people."

"A Place to Watch"

Skowhegan on the Kennebec

How the New England community which in the year of Our Lord 1927 succeeds in landing a new industry feels about it is exemplified by the case of Skowhegan, where on Friday evening of this week the neighbors will dedicate a factory building recently erected for the use of shoe manufacturers.

The ladies of the Grange will serve a baked bean supper, the most eloquent orators of Somerset County will be called upon for a few well-chosen words apiece, the three-story building will be inspected by one and all, and then there will be dancing.

Several months ago, Skowhegan decided to do a little community advertising. An industrial association was organized, with the First Selectman as its head. Negotiations were entered into with a firm of manufacturers already successful at Calais. Skowhegan folk invested $35,000 in the stock of a new company under the same management. The Central Maine Power Company invested a like amount in the new building. Under the law, the town government was powerless to provide the shoemakers with the land upon which the factory stands and the necessary amount will be provided by Friday's "dedication party."

Skowhegan is one of New England's interior towns which, decade after decade, have shown continued growth. The population in 1850 was only 1,756. Today, it is "rising" 6,000. The new shoe factory will give employment to 400 hands.

In the expressive if inelegant language of the day the Indians, who named Skowhegan Falls, "knew their groceries." The name signifies "a place to watch."

Keep your eye upon Skowhegan.

GROWTH OF MYTHS IS REMARKABLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the best established data in history is the principle of the growth of myth.

Whenever a popular hero appears there grow up about him, usually after he is dead, a number of startling tales.

Somehow he attracts a certain class of stories to himself.

Many stories are attributed to Lincoln of which he was probably innocent. They sound like him and the teller likes to attribute them to him although he probably never heard them himself.

So about every famous character myths accumulate.

Kitchener's body was supposed to have been found the other day somewhere in Norway, and they will probably be finding his body in Norway and Sweden and England and France for many years.

Moses was supposed to have been spirited away, and the power of myth is such that many people suppose that he simply got lost and died in the mountains.

King Arthur never really died, they say, but just went away, and about every hundred years the people in a certain section hear faint music which they trace to a cave where King Arthur's spirit is supposed to abide.

The same is true of that picturesque character, Marshal Ney, who is supposed to have escaped from France.

So the supposed stories of Romulus and Remus being suckled by a wolf, and of William Tell shooting an apple off of his son's head and George Washington chopping down a cherry tree are considered by many historians to be myths.

This is based upon the fact that most people would rather be interesting than to tell the truth.

A thing must not be too interesting if it is to be accepted as the truth. The trouble is that people's desire to tell an interesting story is stronger than their desire to adhere strictly to what is so. One kind of work takes only imagination and the other one takes trouble.

BOOSTERS FOR BAY

RAYMOND P. DELANO, president of the United Improvement Association, and FRANK S. DAVIS, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, are busy boosters for the deepening and otherwise improving of DORCHESTER BAY. They want a 20-foot channel for anchorage, and success is promised for the project at no distant date.

COMPLIMENTARY

The re-election of GEORGE E. PHELAN as manager of the George Robert White Fund, at City Hall, for a period of four more years, is more than complimentary to him. It shows the esteem that he is held in by representative men of the HUB. The balance of power for his re-election lay in the hands of MAYOR NICHOLS. It was generously extended to him. MR. PHELAN will receive $20,000 a year, the same salary the mayor receives. He will manage a trust fund of $5,000,000 with a yearly income of $250,000.

QUOTATIONS

Even old French proverbs are resorted to by BOSTON attorneys in putting their points across at legislative headings. During a recent hearing to put more teeth in the "Blue Sky" laws of Massachusetts, HOMER ALBERS, dean of BOSTON UNIVERSITY LAW SCHOOL, quoted one to the effect that "Virtue is its own reward, and more than vice because it is not Limited by conscience." He said it could be applied to the alleged "racketeers" who desired to shift administration of the "Blue Sky" laws from the PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION to the ATTORNEY GENERAL'S office.

ELATED

MAYOR NICHOLS is highly elated over the coming to the port of BOSTON of the Republic Lines. Not only does the arrival of a new steamship line impress him, but also the fact that the ships will be outfitted from this port, which will add to the financial growth of the city. When the MAYOR was president of the Federal Business League he was active in securing additional shipping from this port.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"MY COUNTRY, 'TIS OF THEE!" you sing. But what do you mean when you sing it? What picture arises in your head and heart when you say "my country?"

If you're a man do you think of your store, your gang of fellows, your annual fishing trip, your political party, your family and your vote? Do you think of your American inheritance in terms of town lots and taxes?

Or, if you're a woman, does "my country" mean your furnished apartment or bungalow, the children's school, the row you've had with your neighbor, the ring Jim gave you for Christmas, the operation you had last year? Does "America" mean the favorite ride you and Jim and the children take every Sunday? If not, what does it mean? What's the latitude and longitude of your American vision?

Personalities—people, places and problems connected with our own private lives—those are the things which mean "my country" to most of us. It's a pity, for we are heirs to a so much greater domain than the little circle of our daily lives.

I made a quick circuit of the United States this Winter—a two weeks' swing from ocean to ocean and back again. And I rediscovered My Country.

"My Country"—

Gentle woodsides of the Eastern States — gentle even under their bright sheath of ice. Old homes and clustering elms, a placid trail of smoke above a gray, slate roof—stone walls that generations of patient, conscientious human hands have built. Residue of inarticulate human life. Human coral. Walls that guard and define the city's small peaceful Eastern farms. Walls of rock—walls of sentiment and prejudice—walls of tradition—walls of law. Walls which we thought we forfeited with the Puritan but which seem to grow taller, colder, in these post-war days, spreading far from their New England home—hemming us in—remember these walls. Even though you live in Imperial Valley or Yakima Valley remember those walls. They'll get you yet!

"My Country——"

Cluttered City

The clang of bells, the jar of grinding brakes, a reek of trainyards, a stabbing crisscross of city lights against the night. The city sleeps, but still there is a hum. You do not know the name of this city, but it is part of you. This clanging, cluttered place is a part of you. That file of factory chimneys belching ochre smoke against the frosty darkness of the midnight sky is part of you. Piles of chimneys like the organ pipes, belching industry instead of music. Or perhaps that ceaseless outpouring of industry is a sort of music—the music of a lusty young life, full of discords, but shaping slowly into rhythm.

"My Country——"

The train is rolling like a long ship—rolling slowly and gently in mile long rolls. We are crossing the plains. "Crossing the plains," how carelessly we say that phrase. We to whom "the plains" are a spot on the map or a blurred scene from a Pullman window. How seldom do our selfish, stupid eyes see those slow ghosts which plod beside the train: white, covered wagons whose slow passage of the plain was marked with blood and tears. We cross the plains and see the fat, safe land veiled with the sprouting corn and grain, golden with harvest, or sprawled asleep. A giant body blanketed with snow.

"My Country——"

Desert and Mountain

Red buttes beneath a frozen sky—a turquoise set in the battered silver of wind hammered snow. Air like steel splintered in a glittering veil. Red buttes and orange sand and purple shadows spilling under the mesquite. The desert is afloat with color on this Winter day.

"My country——"

Snow sheds, and through the slats a glimpse of towering pine. A blue jay flashes—there's the pungent smell of balsam—the mogul engines heave and bellow up the slope and then, the ribbed Sierra crossed, we dip and swoop down to a long, rose-scented land, down to a gay bacchante dancing by the Golden Gate, fruit wreathed and flower-scented, but with life, her laughing mouth all stained with beauty's wine.

"My Country——"

Not the job at the store, nor the racket in the city hall, nor the bridge club nor the golf links rids on Sunday—no part of that petty, personal program spells America, but this vast, lonely treasure of the hinterland. Dugouts on prairies, barns in Ohio, fierce, mushroom cities on the desert's edge, wild, shaggy horses pawing stubble from beneath the snow, a cowboy, silhouetted on a butte, a lonely woman peering from a dobe shack, the bellow of twin moguls clawing the Sierra Slope, a tropic trade wind blowing through the Golden Gate, and over all the Air Mail, like a swooping hawk—all the and all those ghosts which plod beside the trail—all that is ours.

HE WAS not an "ape-man" by a he was a "dawn-man," affirms Professor Osborn of the celebrate pithecanthropus of Java, whos some persons have looked upon a the "missing link" between ape an man. Professor Osborn says he i glad to be "the first to befriend th dawn-man of the long-pre-Stone Ag and to remove from his reputatio the bar sinister of ape descent."

Here then, is our true ancestor no the feelings of certain sensitiv persons are saved, for, in Professo Osborn's words: "The ape ancestr hypothesis is entirely out of dat and its place is taken by the re cent demonstrations that we are d scended from "dawn-men," not fro "ape-men."

But if the fundamentalists think that this is a victory for them they will find that it is merely a victor over names.

The FACTS that they have f face have become more formidabl than ever by virtue of the ver discoveries which have removed th stigma of ape kinship from the pos old "man of Trinil," alias pithecan thropus. Because these facts ar credited by Professor Osborn, carr the origin of man back SIX MILLI ON YEARS.

Yes, by virtue of marks and re mains of him recently uncovere near the east coast of England, an drops through the bottom of all ow cosy age, which taken his name "Age of Man," and finds himself presenting the far more ancien "Age of Mammals."

The "Trinil man" of Java an the "Piltdown man" of Sussex England, are set down as virtuall contemporary, both belonging to th beginning of the Age of Man. Bu back of them come, now, the "Tea hall man" of Ipswich, whose dat was still deeper in the Age of Mam mals.

What were these super-ancien members of our race doing in thei "dawn time"?

Chipping flints! The Yankee wit his hickories is the prelude of an ancestral tendency at least six mi lion years old. Before the Age o man it could only be manifeste with flakes of flint.

In the Age of Mammals, Infan man sat on the red clay at th shore of the foaming North Sea an chipped flints. Ages later, in Javi the Trinil man chipped flints an in England the Piltdown man.

Another age, and Neandertha man chipped flints; another, an the Cro-Magnon man chipped flint —and made pictures on cave walls And wherever any traces of the late Stone Age men can be found an heaps of chipped flints scattere among the relics of growing indus tries.
